1.PREPARATION AND INTENTION

To begin this personal purification ceremony, find a quiet and serene space within your home.

Light a candle or create a controlled fire if it's safe to do so, or use a symbolic representation of fire.

Take a few moments to center yourself through deep breathing and meditation.

Reflect upon the aspects of your life, thoughts, or habits that are holding you back or no longer serving your spiritual growth.

Write these down on a piece of paper, setting a clear intention to let go of them.

2.RELEASING AND TRANSFORMATION

Approach the fire or symbolic representation, holding your paper with the written burdens.

As you do, speak your intention to release these energies and patterns that no longer serve your higher self.

Visualize the fire as a transformative force, capable of transmuting these burdens into positive energy.

With reverence, cast the paper into the fire and watch it burn.

As the flames consume the paper, feel a sense of release and transformation, symbolizing your commitment to letting go of what hinders your spiritual growth.

3.AFFIRMATION AND RENEWAL

After the symbolic act of release, sit quietly and reflect on your newly created space for growth and healing.

Speak an affirmation or intention for your purified self, focusing on the positive changes you wish to cultivate.

Express gratitude for the opportunity to release and renew, and feel a sense of inner purification.

Embrace the knowledge that this process not only benefits your soul but ripples out positive energy into the world, affecting all souls in the interconnected web of life.

“To be a lightworker is to be a beacon of hope, radiating love and assistance in every corner of the world."
